Cat, Dog Fight Saturday Night

Georgia Favored;
Both Teams After
Their Third Win

By Tom Diskin

Kentucky's unpredictable Wildcats will face the powerful Georgia Bulldogs Saturday night on Stoll field before an expected capacity crowd. In their last 19 games, the "Jaw-jaw" gridgers won 18, while losing only to North Carolina, 14-7, two weeks ago at Chapel Hill. Coach Wally Butts and his burly Bulldogs opened the 1947 season by trimming Furman, 13-7, lost to the Tarheels a week later, and then climbed all over the surprised Tigers of Louisiana State last Saturday to upset favored LSU, 35-19, as Georgia's grid machine shifted into high gear.

The UK Cats will take into this contest a record of six consecutive victories on Stoll field. The last time the Lexington Lynxes tasted the bitterness of defeat was on November 24, 1945, when Tennessee took the Blue and White huskies, 14-0, in the final game of that season.

In six previous encounters, Kentucky has trimmed Georgia only once, lost four and tied once. In 1939, UK nixed out the Bulldogs, 13-6, and the following year, the scrap ended in a 7-7 tie. Since then, however, the boys from the red clay country have whipped the Fayette county felines four straight.

Aerials Anticipated
The big battle Saturday will probably develop into a pitching duel between Georgia's ace quarterback, Johnny Rauch, and UK's George Blanda. Both of these signal callers are natives of Pennsylvania—Rauch hails from Yeasden, while Blanda is from Youngwood.

Rauch, considered by many as one of the best T-formation quarterbacks in the entire country, led the nation in passing last season with 48 completions in 87 attempts in 10 games.

Only four of the 87 aerials that Rauch tossed were intercepted and his total yardage gained for Georgia was 779 yards—14 of the passes going for touchdowns. He is a triple threat and dangerous in every department.

UK Eateries Will Observe 'Meatless' Day

By Jean Vance

"Meatless" Tuesdays and "poultry-and-eggless" Thursdays will be observed by all University-operated eating places. In accordance with SGA's stand to abide by President Truman's conservation program.

Claude Sprolows, SGA president, stated, "We are in accord with the President's plan to meet at least part of the crisis brought about by the European food situation."

Pledge Cooperation
More than 700 women residents of three residence halls, two cooperative houses, Jewell hall annex, and Sayre dormitory, have pledged their cooperation.

Interviews from various married veterans and their wives disclosed that most of them are willing to cooperate with the Truman food saving plan.

Mrs. Pat Mullins said she thought "It is a good idea if everyone cooperates. Robertson Scott's opinion is that some people would eat twice as many eggs on Tuesdays and twice as much meat on Thursdays. 'If it will aid Europe, I'm all for it,' he said."

Bread, Not Bullets
Joe Lyle, opposing the plan, said, "Charity begins at home."

"It is better to send food today than men later," said Dick Stofer. The central dining unit for women's halls, located in Boyd hall, serves approximately 700 girls each day. Miss Frances Kimball, dietitian, estimated that the girls are served about 300 pounds of meat daily, 180 dozen eggs each week, 250 to 300 pounds of poultry a week, 40 to 50 loaves of bread daily, and 400 pounds of flour a week in the form of hot muffins and rolls.

No Sunday Breakfast
The student cafeteria serves approximately 3,000 meals daily, according to Miss Thelma Thompson, director of the cafeteria. Students, faculty and townspeople who patronize the cafeteria and the adjoining grill consume approximately 700 pounds of meat each day, 100 dozen eggs every day except Sunday when no breakfast is served, 75 loaves of bread, and 33 pans of rolls each day, and about 160 pounds of poultry weekly.

The University Training school cafeteria serves 425 meals each day, according to Director Lynn G. Ginner. Estimates by the cafeteria supervisor, Mrs. Flora Graham, show consumption of 50 pounds of meat daily, 30 dozen eggs each week, and 15 loaves of bread daily.

Pep Rally Tonight

Georgia Players
To Be Welcomed

The rally will be in connection with the Lances' annual carnival being held on the field.

Frank J. Prindl, band director, announced there will be no majorettes marching Saturday night. Mr. Prindl said the band became "The Best Band in Dixie" without the majorettes and he believes it will remain the best without them.

The majorettes will be returned only by student demand, he said. Other highlights of the weekend are various fraternity and sorority open house parties after the game.

Pro Athletics Discussed

Three Students
Speak On WHAS

Should the University of Kentucky adopt a system of professional athletics?

This question was discussed on the University Round Table over Station WHAS Sunday. The discussion topic was suggested by Elmer Sulzer, head of the department of Radio Arts, UK.

Three University of Kentucky students, O. C. Halyard, Jack Fenton, and Kirby Cox discussed the question, with Elvis J. Starr, of the Law College, serving as moderator.

Costs Explained
The Round Table made no general conclusions, but agreed that such a plan is undesirable.

A question concerning the cost of the game to the University arose at one point. In answer, it was pointed out, that since the cost of sports is paid by the Athletic Association and gate receipts from sports events, no other department of the University suffers financially in support of the athletic department.

Concerning athletic scholarships, it was agreed that more effort should be made to create scholarships for deserving students in other departments of the school, as well as in athletics.

Good Publicity
According to Mr. Starr, agreement was reached that too much emphasis is placed on collegiate sports, particularly football, but that they have a place on the campus for the recreation they afford as well as the publicity attracted to the school.

Halyard, on a question concerning schedules, said the Wildcats should continue to challenge the more powerful colleges, rather than return to opponents of lesser strength, because, "it is what the crowds want."

Freshmen To Cheer From Special Section

Claude Sprolows, Student Government Association announces that plans have been completed with the Athletic department to provide a special section for freshmen in the east section of the concrete stands.

A block of approximately 500 seats will be set aside for the special cheering group. Sprolows said that freshmen will be permitted in the section only by wearing their freshman caps, and those who desire may bring along their dates.

Special cheer leaders for the section will be provided by SuKy. Sprolows said that he believes the special section will add impetus to the cheering and is an attempt to simulate more spirit among the student body at the game.

Lances To Go All Out In Tonight's Carnival

By Charles Whaley

Just about everything except the man on the flying trapeze will be ballyhooed tonight when Lances, junior men's recognition and leadership society, stages its annual fall carnival on the intramural field behind Alumni gym. There's even a dance thrown in for good measure.

Besides that, a "Queen of the Lances Carnival" will be crowned.

Informality Is Keynote
Informality is the keynote of the affair, according to Joe Ballard, chairman of the Lances carnival committee. This includes entering the Union ballroom by the rear fire escape when time for the dance rolls around. The candidates for queen will be dressed as informally as everyone else.

Approximately thirty booths, each with a sponsor who is automatically a queen candidate, will be set up on the field. Judges will choose the queen according to popularity and proceeds of the booth she sponsors and her beauty. The runner-up will be designated first attendant.

The winner will be announced at 11 p.m. at the dance. Although the carnival will not end until 10:30 p.m., the dance will begin at 8 p.m. and close at midnight, Ballard said.

Called Lowest Biennial Cost

The University is asking the General Assembly for $13,370,812 as a minimum for operation the next two years, Dr. H. L. Donovan, president, announced last night at a press-radio dinner in the Student Union.

The 1948-49 figure is $6,627,704, and the 1949-50 request is $6,743,108.

The figures, charted in a brochure for distribution to the citizens of the state, are based on an enrollment of 7200. This figure has already been exceeded by more than 500 this quarter.

Many recommendations of the Griffenhagen and Associates' report on the University are followed through in the plan for the next two years, the president said.

State Is Campus
"The state of Kentucky is in reality the campus of the University," Dr. Donovan stated, explaining that you cannot have a great state without a great state university.

Educated citizens create wealth, and the money put into developing institutions of higher learning is paid back to the state manifold. As an example, the President cited that because of corn experimentation at the University, the state has netted more money than it has appropriated for the University for 82 years of its existence.

"The time has come when Kentucky must do something for the young men and women who are going East," he said.

22 I-M Teams Enter Football Competition

By Allen Terhune
Pigskin appetites were whetted into anticipation as the leather-lugging touch league made its debut among intramural teams on the University campus Monday afternoon.

Bill McCubbin, intramural director, reports that 22 teams have entered the football frolic and that, because of such a large turnout, the teams have been divided into three divisions.

Each team in the first and second division will play six games in the round-robin affair while the third division teams will clash seven times. No two squads will meet twice.

The three teams in each division that slash their way through the preliminary battles with the highest percentage of triumphs will then compete in the regular elimination tournament.

Press time found an even dozen winners resting in their victory laurels while the 12 defeated squads were yelling, "Play, damn it, play!"

XX's Lead
Last year's champion, Sigma Chi, has forged ahead in the first division and paces the entire loop with two wins and no losses at the expense of teams representing Alpha Gamma Rho and Phi Sigma Kappa, respectively.

The Triangles are currently hitting rock bottom in the first division, having bowed to the Men's Dorm as well as the AGR's. Meanwhile, the Sigma Nu's rattled the loss bucket after meeting the ZBT's in the final tilt of the first division to date.

In the second division, last year's runner-up, the SAE's, dropped their first fray to Sigma Phi Epsilon; the Frankfort Flashes topped the ASP's and the PKA's downed an independent eleven.

Lambda Chi Alpha's squad lost their opener in the third division to the Northern Kentucky Turtles; the ATO's topped Phi Kappa Tau; Delta Tau Delta whipped the Kappa Sig's; and Kappa Alpha raced to victory over Phi Delta Theta.

Tennis Entry Large
Entries in the tennis tournament topped all expectations as 133 men signed their rackets away for singles and doubles competition.

First round singles must be played by Oct. 11, it was announced by the intramural department, who set up the following deadlines:

Second Round by Oct. 11
Third round by Oct. 18
Fourth Round by Nov. 4
Fifth Round by Nov. 7
Sixth Round by Nov. 12
Doubles
First Round by Oct. 21
Second Round by Oct. 28
Third Round by Nov. 4.

John Donaldson Bulldog Halfback Scored 90 points last year

Cat, Dog Fight

and wall is terrific! No team scored through the line this season. The touchdowns made by Georgia Bulldogs have been over the line via the air. Furman scored on a pass; then in the North Carolina game, big Walt Pupa, Tarheel fullback, flipped two aerials for scores; and last Saturday LSU passed for one marker and intercepted a Rauch pass for their points.

Kentucky will have to take to the sky if they expect to upset the mighty Red and Black team from Athens, Ga. Blanda and Jim Babb will be called upon to do the passing and must show considerable improvement along this line from last week when they completed only six aerials in 19 tosses against the scrappy X team.

Dopey Phelps, UK's star halfback, was pretty well bottled last Saturday by Xavier, and Georgia will attempt to do the same.

Edwards is Captain

All set to stop Phelps & Co. is the rugged Bulldog forward line, led by Captain Dan Edwards, the right end, Center Gene Chandler, and Weyman Sellers, at the left flank. The two first-string tackles, Carl George and Jack Bush, are big and rough. Bernie Reid and Herb St. John, guards, will probably start for the visiting team.

This line is one of the best in the Conference, playing brilliantly against North Carolina and LSU. They stopped the highly publicized Charlie Justice extremely well two weeks ago and LSU's hard-running backs last week.

Bulldog Backfield
In the Georgia backfield, Rauch will be the quarterback, with John Donaldson at right half, 18-year-old Luke Brunson, a freshman, at left half, and either Al Bodine or Floyd "Brewy" Reid at the fullback slot.

Wah Wah Jones, who saw no action against Xavier because of a shoulder injury, is expected to be ready for the starting right end assignment. In fact the entire Kentucky squad is in pretty fair physical condition and will probably start the same at full strength.

Frosh Sink Navy 50-9 At Annapolis

By Don B. Towles

In a game in which the first half was jam-packed with thrills and was nip and tuck, the Kentucky freshman football team easily overcame the weak opposition of the Annapolis freshman by a score of 50-9.

Kentucky opened the scoring by charging over the double line early in the first quarter only to be followed by the Annapolis men who scored minutes later to tie the score at the first quarter 7-7.

However, the frosh of Wildcat land again crossed the dual lines to charge into pay dirt only two plays before the half ended to take the lead, 13-7.

Four TD's In Third

A strong Kentucky team returned to the Navy field after the half to mark up four touchdowns in the third quarter while the Annapolis frosh were held to a safety. This concluded the Navy scoring.

In the final canto, Roy Ford, Kentucky center, blocked a Navy punt to score another touchdown for the Wildcat freshmen. On the last play of the game a pass from Franklin to Croger connected and Kentucky again marked up a TD, to end the game with Kentucky on the big end of a 50-9 score.

"Everybody did a good job," said Coach Bill McCubbin of the all-

Lloyd McDermott Wildcat Tackle Outstanding in line play

freshman team. Showing up especially well for the frosh were Bill Leskovar, captain of the team and fullback, Knoeri, a guard, and of course, John Chumley, right halfback who chalked up four of the eight touchdowns made by the freshmen Wildcats. It was hinted that Chumley and Leskovar might be moved to the varsity team in the near future.

Phelps Not Ready

Coach McCubbin said that the Annapolis phibes were not in as good shape as the Wildcats and it was evident that they had not practiced as much.

Musketeers Hold Wildcats To 20-7 Win

By O. C. Halyard

What the Kentucky coaches as well as the rosters had hoped would be a breather before this Saturday's real trial with Georgia, turned out to be a hard-fought for 20-7 victory for the Wildcats over the Xavier Musketeers last week-end.

A capacity crowd of nearly 15,000 at Xavier stadium saw what all advance notices had indicated would be a rout for the Kentuckians changed into a moral victory for the Cincinnatians by a never say die Xavier squad.

The heavily-favored Kentuckians clicked like machinery, and tallied twice before some of the crowd had hardly gotten in its seats, and it looked as if a repeat performance of the 70-0 trouncing dished out by the Wildcats last year was in the making.

Three Musketeers

Then the Three Musketeers with a dozen or so sturdy aids—stunned though they were—decided to settle down and make a fight of it. That they did. While holding off a whole flock of Wildcats from their goal except for once in the next three quarters, they managed to out point them 7-6.

Stephen O'Dea, the first Musketeer, stabbed one of Jim Babb's passes on the Kentucky 40 and slashed his way to the 31 before he was overcome. But there were two other Musketeers waiting to take up the fight.

Quarterback Bob McQuade fired a pass to halfback Pat Fehring on the 15 and Pat knifed and cut his way through the Wildcats' secondary for the score. O'Dea planted a nice kick right between the goal posts to shave the Cats' lead down another point.

Half Ends 14-7

The Kentuckians hung on, and while they were able to tighten their defense against the Three Musketeers, they too were unable to advance far with straight football, and the half ended 14-7.

Finally Bryant had to lift the covers for a moment and reveal Don "Dopey" Phelps as a triple threat man in order to line up the Cats' final marker. Phelps earlier in the game had booted one from scrimmage on the Kentucky 40 over the Xavier goal on a roll.

And now, well into the third period, George Blanda shovelled one out to Phelps who started out wide as if to skirt the end. But instead he jumped into the air and flung a neat pass to Charlie Bentley on the Muskies' 46. Bentley doing a neat bit of running to the 16.

Phelps Scores

Jack "Bobo" Farris joined with Phelps to advance the ball to the seven, and Blanda hit Hensley on the two from where Don lugged it through tackle to pay dirt. Blanda's attempt went wide and that was all the night's scoring.

Kentucky's first two touchdowns came as a result of straight football, while the opposition was still slightly scared. On the first play from scrimmage Farris reeled off 53 yards moving the pigskin from the Kentucky 10 to the X 28. Bill Moseley and Phelps pushed it to the five before Moseley bucked it over. Blanda converted.

Xavier took the kick-off but was unable to move far and had to punt to the Cats who started their second touchdown march in less than eight minutes, a 55 yard trip this time. Bill Boller tossed one to Bentley and the Cat end moved deep in Xavier territory to the 28 before he was stopped.

Moseley Again

Blanda connected with Hensley twice and then Moseley forced his way through the middle again. Blanda clicked on the extra point.

The Wildcat backfield turned in a good job of running and passing for the night against the stubborn Musketeers, but the right side of the Kentucky line looked bad with "Wah Wah" Jones and Bill Griffin both warming the bench with injuries. Wash Serini, Lloyd McDermott, Bob Gain, Leonard Preston, and Hensley worked hard in the line along with Kentucky centers Jay Rhodemyre, Harry Ulinski, and Nick Odilavik.

FROM THE GREEKS

By Helen Deiss
N X O P Z T T X X O

To all fraternities and sororities on the UK campus:
I am writing on behalf of each and every member of Lambda Chi Omega chapter of Sigma Chi to express our gratitude for the help and offers of help which were proffered after our recent fire. They came to us when we needed them greatly. We feel this display of friendship is indicative of the spirit which exists among the fraternities and sororities, and the presence of this spirit serves to strengthen our belief in the fraternity and sorority system.

PERSONALITIES

The Washington, D.C., Alumni Club is planning a dinner meeting at the Annapolis hotel on the night of November 10 honoring President H. L. Doreman and other faculty members who will be in Washington at that time, attending the annual meeting of the National Association of Land Grant Colleges.

Russell Cox, 39, research assistant in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and president of the Washington club is making plans for the affair, and Kentucky alumni planning to be in Washington on that date are urged to communicate with Mr. Cox, so that he may make arrangements for you at the dinner.

The Alumni office received during the summer a first edition copy of Thomas Segue's "Starling of the White House," a gift from David E. Kahn '14, of New York City. In the preface to the book Mr. Kahn is credited by the author with instigating the book, and "without his enthusiasm, stimulation, aid and support, it could not have been completed," says Mr. Segue.

Autographed by Mr. Kahn "To the Alumni of the University of Kentucky," the former Lexingtonian says "We are proud of being Kentuckians—here in New York."

Mr. Kahn, his wife, and two sons were visitors on the campus in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodson Dennis Scott of 420 W. 24th Street, New York City, are the parents of a daughter, Melissa Corinne, born August 5 at Mrs. Scott's home in Columbus Ohio.

Woodson, a member of the class of 1926 who received his law degree in 1927, is practicing law in New York.

Prior to World War II, Miss Erickson held the position of child welfare consultant for the Louisiana department of Public Welfare. She entered Red Cross work in October, 1942, and served as assistant field director with the 23rd General Hospital at Ft. Meade Md., for 11 months and went overseas with that Army unit in July 1943, remaining with the hospital in Africa and later, in Naples, Italy for seven months.

Later she was made regional hospital supervisor in the Mediterranean theater, and subsequently in the European theater. In March, 1946 she accepted an assignment with UNRRA and served in Canton, China for a year. She returned to the Red Cross in September of this year.

Support '48-'50 Plans

"The University does not ask for charity. It promises to return to the people a dividend on every dollar invested . . . You cannot have a great state without a great University."

President H. L. Donovan made this statement this week when he announced the budget request for the legislature for the operation of the University the next two years. There is nothing unnecessary included in the report; it is based upon recommendations made by the Griffenhagen and Associates' report released this summer and financed by the present state administration.

Every student should be as familiar with the budget needs and as interested in their presentation and discussion in the legislature as he is familiar with class and personal problems. Upon the obtaining of the requested money rests the expansion of departments and the qualities of employed instructors.

A great University depends upon the faith and support of citizens of the state. It is up to you who are citizens to demand the best education possible.

If Anyone Could, The Army Could

In a recent poly sel class the instructor, earnestly endeavoring to illustrate the point that unpopularity is unenforceable, repeated a remark made by the late Little Flower that it would take the whole United States army to dry up New York City. Drawled a student evidently speaking from experience, "Well, if anybody could, they could!"

Letters

The Answer

Editor, The Kernel:
I would like to answer the letter written by Jim Donovan and John L. McLaughlin concerning the UK band.

I think you have made a statement that you cannot back up. That statement being that the "Best Band in Dixie" is as dead as the Confederation from which it draws its title. Before you, Jim Donovan and J. L. McLaughlin, condemn the BBID, why don't you see them in action? Have you seen the Kentucky band march and make formations at a football game this year? NO! Have you tried to find out just why we are not having majorettes up front? Maybe, I doubt it. It is not the fault of the members of the band, I assure you. After all, a band is for show. I, for one, think we should have majorettes up front. The band this year is bigger and better than it has been since the war. See us in action Saturday night and I think that you will still agree that the UK band is the best band in Dixie. Thanks for the compliment about the music.

STICK O' TYPE

by martha evans

If a guy laughs too long and too loud at the other fellow, he's liable to get sand in his mouth.

The other day while munching my daily ration of black bread and frozen peas in the Union cafeteria, I saw a thing that ought not to occur on a democratic campus.

A girl came through the line, got past the drinking fountain successfully and then stood uncertainly carrying her tray. The place was crowded, the lines were long and squirmy, the tables that were empty were littered with half-eaten, melted jello, cigarette butts, lipstick-rimmed glasses, and wilted straws. The girl I watched, obviously a newcomer, didn't know the cafeteria custom of barging in with a careless "Pardon me, may I eat here?" at the same time unloading the tray. Perhaps from a small town, she didn't know to set her tray down on one of the messy tables and get the bus-boy to clear it for her. She was neatly dressed and had poise, but she was timid.

I watched uncertainly as the hostess led the girl to a table with a vacant place. The three pretty girls at the table nodded assent to the hostess' quiet question and the girl emptied her tray and sat down.

The trio made no gesture of friendliness, there was no graciousness, the unmistakable earmark of good breeding. Propping her elbows on the table one of the three made a remark to the girl on her left, blowing cigarette smoke over the whole table, which was loaded with food. Girls are so much more careless about where they blow their cigarette smoke than fellows.

The girl ate in silence, quickly, nervously. It would have been different had she been a first-year student, accustomed to the casualness of the freshmen. But she was a first-year freshman; you can spot them with half an eye. Once she looked up from her plate, and the sad, lost puppy-dog look in her eyes was so forlorn that I couldn't take it and looked quickly down at my brown bread and frozen peas.

She left before I had more than half plowed through my pie, but then there were more people to talk to at my table than at hers. It made you want to go to her, offering a helping hand. You say, "Oh, she'll get along; the quarter's begun." Yes, perhaps so, but a friendly face means a lot sometimes. Maybe those girls didn't think she looked like the good pledge type, maybe they wouldn't have welcomed her into their circle; but after the reception she got perhaps she wouldn't want to come.

Best courier: evaluation not complete
Sweetest: Joan Hendricks of Louisville
Most cheese cake: He wouldn't tell.

The freshmen may have their troubles but the seniors have a few, too. As Pat Quinn says, "It's not everybody who can have two first hour classes."

To rate high with Bobby Brown,

Speaking of freshmen, an undisciplined senior man has evaluated the new young ladies for us:

Best looking: Mary Alice Mayer.
Sexiest: flunked entrance tests
Classiest: non-Kentuckian: Sandy Morgan of Florida
Most Concocted: Dead-heat
Greeks with least chance: Phi Beta Kappa
Best dressed: Anne Estill

Scoop! The gossip column, we see, has missed the BIG pinning of the quarter. One of the writers of the Spice has joined the happy multitude of pinned coeds. Miss Amy Price, our svelte beauty queen, now wears the pin of Delta Tau Delta. Dick Overstreet of Lexington is the lucky man.

The reason the Union Grill served meat on Tuesday: The food had been ordered for that day previous to the announcement by President Truman of meatless Tuesdays.

Something ought to be done about people who sit toward the front at speaking programs and leave amidst clatter and chatter when the hour bell rings, regardless of whether the address has been completed. Most professors understand such tardiness.

Kentucky--Unquote

By Jim Donovan

If retractable railroad spikes in stadium seats is the cure for a sickly cheering section, I say, "Put 'em in!" At the Cincinnati game a person could have dropped feathers off the back of the stadium into a truckload of corn meal mush and heard the echo off White Hall.

As to support of the team, if they had depended on help from the stands, Kentucky would have played the entire game flat on their backs in their own end zone.

Maybe there are some who think it wasn't that bad, but I sincerely believe that if a lightning bolt had struck the whole 24,000, the rustling of their ghosts would have been more audible.

It's just plain apathy in connection with letting down hair and giving out with a yell that's been psychologically aching for expression since the ball game before.

At one time or another, everyone has the desire to raise the roof with the sound of his own vocal cords. Some express themselves while walking down Rose street at 2 a.m.

Of course there are a few who throw beer bottles at chimney swallows, and some who live next door to fraternity houses so their personal pandemonium will be unnoticed.

Taking all into consideration, man is just plain noisy, and is by nature a producer of, if not a victim of,
